SENATE RETAINS ANTI-STRIKE BAN

A Move to Eliminate It From Cummins Rail Measure Fails.

TRY FOR COMPROMISE

McCormick Proposal for Canadian Method Fails, but Another Vote Is Asked.

CHRISTMAS RECESS FADING

Upper Branch to Stay Until Disposition Is Made; the House Members Go.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The Senate held its fifth night session on the railroad bill tonight with grave doubt in the minds of the senators that the measure could not be passed in time to permit beginning of the holiday recess Saturday.

The longer clauses, including the anti-strike provision of the Cummins measure were under discussion during the day culminating in a rejection by a vote of 26 to 46 of the proposed amendment by Senator Stanley, democrat of Kentucky, to eliminate the clause. Efforts toward a compromise ensued.

During the debate an agreement was reached by senate and house majority leaders not to permit a holiday recess until the measure is through the senate and sent to conference.

House Members Go Home.

In conference, however, Senator Lewis and Representative Morell agreed to suspend house business Saturday to permit members of the lower body to go home for the holidays, even if the senate is held by delay in the railroad bill. Beginning Monday house sessions will be perfunctory, under a "gentlemen's agreement," to transact no business until January 5, but to adjourn each day to day until the date of recess.

The anti-strike provisions were in turn attacked and defended today while conferences were held looking to a compromise by modifying the clause imposing criminal penalties for strikes or lockouts.

After defeat of the Stanley motion to strike out the entire labor section, Senator McCormick, republican of Indiana, offered a substitute plan similar to the Canadian system to prohibit strikes for 60 days after decisions of the adjustment board, and requiring decisions from the board within 90 days.

Seeks Another Vote.

An attendance vote of 31 to 21 in the substitute of Senator McCormick for the anti-strike provision, was rejected and Mr. McCormick gave notice that he would ask for another vote later.

ARMY AUTO TIRES RUINED

Exposure Destroys $35,000,000 Worth in France.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Automobile tires worth more than $35,000,000, grown in a pine forest and exposed to intense sun and ground were ruined through exposure to the weather at the motor transport corps base at Verneuil, France. Captain Hubert Cleden, an officer at the camp today, had a huge committee investigating war department expenditures during the war. No coverings of any kind were placed over the tires for more than three months. Captain Cleden declared, although there were many tarpaulin scatterers around the camp, being used for less important purposes.

Approximately 2,500 motorcycles, after being placed in perfect repair for use, the A. E. F. were parked at the same camp and allowed to stand in the weather for months, so they became useless piles of rust, other witnesses told the committee.
